Term 4:

This term the children have participated in activities that have focussed on NAIDOC (National Aborigines and Islanders Day Observance Committee), different environments like the Desert, and exciting events like the circus. These program categories are based around the children's interests, strengths and potential learning opportunities.

Our program encourages the children to participate in our daily programmed activity but also encourages the children to take part in free choice play.

The combination of exploring new environments such as the desert while also learning about the history of the land that they live on, enabled the children to get a deeper understanding of cultures outside of their own. The children really enjoyed the mix of craft with learning, such as designing your own boomerangs with different traditional indigenous symbols or creating a poster on an animal native only in the desert. This encouraged children to look at learning as a fun activity and enabled them to tap into their creativity in a productive way.

This term, children have really enjoyed outdoor activities and play. Due to the warm weather, educators have given the children the option of heading down to the soccer field and the basketball courts. The children have loved this freedom and the opportunity to develop their team work, communication, proprioception and motor skills.

We look forward to all of the fun and learning that 2021 will bring on!
